LS 254 Diagnostic Assessment Homework Assignment

To receive credit for LS 254, you must complete this assignment and submit it to your LD specialist at your results (final) appointment. Part one consists of short essay questions. Part two involves completing a chart. The work you do on this assignment is designed to help you in your classes.

Part One: Learning Differently and A Matter of Perception

A. Read the handbook Learning Differently (on reserve in the college library, or on line at: www.cabrillo.edu/academics/learningskills/
B. View the video A Matter of Perception: Understanding Learning Differences (on reserve in the college library)
C. Answer the following questions on a separate sheet of paper.

What are the common characteristics of students with learning disabilities which make learning a challenge? (pages 18-22)

What are some learning strategies that may be used effectively for certain types of cognitive weaknesses? Name 2 types of cognitive weaknesses and two effective strategies for each. (pages 63-66).

What are “academic accommodations”? List some typically requested academic accommodations at the college level. (pages 32-34)

What is ADD or ADHD? How might either one be treated differently from a learning disability? Is ADD legally considered a learning disability?

Name three differences that exist between high school support services and college support services for students with learning disabilities.

What question(s) might it be important to ask yourself regarding disclosure of your learning disability in the workplace?

After viewing the video, A Matter of Perception: Understanding Learning Differences, write a brief essay describing scenes or information in the video you feel you can identify with. Describe or explain why you identify with them.

Part Two: The Personal Strategies Chart

The chart on the following page will help you decide what your individual challenges are and which strategies and accommodations you can use to help you meet these challenges. According to the directions below, using what you have learned from the handbook, video, recommendations sheet, and the testing process, please fill in the chart. Bring it to your results appointment, where you and the LD specialist will review your chart and compare your challenges, strategies, and accommodations with those suggested by your test results.

1. In the second column, list any learning challenges you have in each of the 6 contexts. Challenges are problems you encounter in these tasks; difficulties you have learning. Common challenges for students with learning disabilities can be found on pages 19-21 of the handbook.

2. In the third column, list strategies that you might use to meet each of your challenges. Strategies are techniques you can use on your own to improve your learning. Strategies can be found on pages 63 –67 of the handbook (disregard the headings) and on the colored recommendations sheet.

3. In the fourth column, list accommodations you hope the college will grant you based on your challenges. Accommodations are adaptations or adjustments the college can provide you to help you compensate for your learning disability. Accommodations can be found on pages 33 &34 of the handbook.

   REMEMBER, under Title V and the Americans with Disabilities Act, accommodations are granted based on verified disabilities.

   These accommodations do not give you an unfair advantage over another student. Therefore, what accommodations you can use will be based on your test results.

The LD Specialist will evaluate your chart according to the attached grading rubric.

The LD Specialist will also make appropriate recommendations for strategies and accommodations based on the results of your learning disability assessment.
