COASTAL CLEANUP DAY
Santa Cruz's ocean advocate, Save Our Shores, invites the community to participate in Coastal Cleanup Day, the single largest volunteer event on the planet. On Sept. 15, local businesses, schools, and thousands of community volunteers from Santa Cruz/Monterey Counties will head to 80 different sites, including beaches and wetlands, to pick up trash and restore their beauty. At last year's event, more than 4,500 volunteers in Santa Cruz and Monterey County alone helped to remove more than 17,000 pounds of trash and recyclables. Coastal Cleanup Day will take place in more than 850 statewide locations and throughout more than 100 countries; don't miss your chance to be a part of a worldwide movement. CHRISTIAN SOULJES

INFO: 9 a.m.-12 p.m. Saturday, Sept. 15. For location info and to pre-register, visit savewourshores.org/cct.

ART SEEN

A BRIDGE BEYOND BORDERS
Two years in the making, the Cabrillo Gallery's latest exhibition, "Art: A Bridge Beyond Borders," will feature an array of mixed media and print works by artists from Mexico and California who have focused on a single theme transcending cultural boundaries. The idea for the exhibit formed when Robynn Smith, a professor of art at Monterey Peninsula College, and Erin Goodwin-Guerrero, who has a long history of working and living in Mexico, decided to explore the ways in which art is used in immigration. For information, please contact the gallery. [Exhibition open now - Sept. 28] Cabrillo Gallery, 6500 Soquel Drive, Aptos. No cover.
