SAFETY EXPANSION
Rancho Del Mar outreach to begin after Labor Day
Small Business Development Center announces advisors for affected business owners

By INGE GUNDE

gunde@salinasca.gov

APTSO — Teresa Thomas, who runs the Small Business Development Center at Cal State Salinas, has announced a plan to expand its outreach efforts to small business owners affected by the Salinas Valley Expressway project.

Thomas, who is also the director of the California Small Business Development Center, said the center will work with local businesses to help them navigate the challenges posed by the expressway.

In addition to providing guidance and resources, the center will also offer training and workshops to help businesses grow.

“Small businesses are the backbone of our economy,” Thomas said. “Our goal is to help them survive and thrive through these difficult times.”

The Small Business Development Center is a non-profit organization that provides training, counseling, and other services to small business owners.

For more information, call the Small Business Development Center at 831-375-6652 or visit their website at www.sbc_salinas.org.

SAFETY
Continued from A1

Small Business Development Center goals.

APTSOS — Teresa Thomas, who runs the Small Business Development Center at Cal State Salinas, has announced a plan to expand its outreach efforts to small business owners affected by the Salinas Valley Expressway project.

Thomas, who is also the director of the California Small Business Development Center, said the center will work with local businesses to help them navigate the challenges posed by the expressway.

In addition to providing guidance and resources, the center will also offer training and workshops to help businesses grow.

“Small businesses are the backbone of our economy,” Thomas said. “Our goal is to help them survive and thrive through these difficult times.”

The Small Business Development Center is a non-profit organization that provides training, counseling, and other services to small business owners.

For more information, call the Small Business Development Center at 831-375-6652 or visit their website at www.sbc_salinas.org.

SAFETY
Continued from A1

The center will also offer training and workshops to help businesses grow.

“Small businesses are the backbone of our economy,” Thomas said. “Our goal is to help them survive and thrive through these difficult times.”

The Small Business Development Center is a non-profit organization that provides training, counseling, and other services to small business owners.

For more information, call the Small Business Development Center at 831-375-6652 or visit their website at www.sbc_salinas.org.