SJ set to OK $7M in Samsung incentives

San Jose officials are expected to approve a $7 million incentive package for Samsung Electronics on Tuesday, according to local historian

The deal was outlined in a new agreement signed by the company and the city of San Jose. The city will agree to award the incentives if Samsung meets certain criteria, including the creation of new jobs and the expansion of existing offices.

The incentives will be awarded in phases, with the first phase of $1 million being awarded in the first quarter of 2013. The remaining five phases will be awarded over the next five years, contingent on Samsung meeting the criteria.

The first phase of the incentives will be awarded if Samsung meets the following criteria:

1. The company agrees to invest $7 million in new or expanded facilities in San Jose.
2. The company agrees to create 200 new jobs, with at least 100 of those jobs paying a minimum of $15 per hour.
3. The company agrees to retain 400 existing jobs.
4. The company agrees to provide $1 million in new local tax revenue over the next five years.
