HIGHWAY 9 REOPENING SLATED FOR EARLY APRIL

Q We just had to laugh at last week’s column where you wrote about Highway 9 — that precious little two-lane, scenic highway that winds its way up to whence we come. You were right, there were indeed two lanes. One lane was going in the opposite direction of Highway 9. This made it a one-way street.

A - The recent rain pushed the reopening of Highway 9 to two lanes back about a week, so leaders from Enterprise Ainsworth, said Caltrans spokesman. “Overall, it was a mild winter and the contractor to expedite the work. We immediately started taking this project was very important for the long-term stability of the bridge and roadwork so traffic situation for them. But it is absurd that they have taken this long to fix our major highway.”

In the Santa Cruz Mountain area, the Santa Cruz County Community could return to its normal as soon as possible. We immediately started taking traffic on Saturday, April 6,” said Colin Jones, Caltrans spokesman. “It is absurd that they have taken this long to fix our major highway.”

The reopening of Highway 9 is scheduled for the March 29.
