CALL FOR NOMINATIONS
THE FLOYD L. YOUNGER AWARD
FOR TEACHING EXCELLENCE
Nomination deadline: April 30, 2013

What is the Floyd L. Younger Award? Established in February 1995 by the Cabrillo College Governing Board, this award honors Floyd L. Younger, Cabrillo’s founding Chief Instructional Officer, and perpetuates his ideals of academic excellence. The Floyd L. Younger Award for Teaching Excellence may be given once annually to recognize exceptional teaching, extraordinary leadership, significant contributions to the college mission, and inspiration imparted to students and colleagues.

Who is eligible to receive this award? Any current or former faculty member who taught at Cabrillo College for at least three years is eligible to receive this award.

Who is eligible to nominate a recipient? Any current Cabrillo College faculty or staff, or any former or current Cabrillo College student, or any faculty committee may nominate candidate(s) for this award. Each nomination must be supported by at least two (2) student letters of nomination. These letters may be submitted by either current or former Cabrillo College students.

How many awards may be given? One (1) Floyd L. Younger Award for Teaching Excellence may be given annually.

What is the process? The Committee to Honor Meritorious Service, a representative group appointed by the Cabrillo College President, will consider all completed nominations for the award, using the criteria established in the Governing Board policy. The Committee will recommend an award recipient to the President by the end of each spring semester. The award will be announced during All College Day preceding the start of the following fall semester.

How can I nominate a candidate? To nominate a candidate for the Floyd L. Younger Award for Teaching Excellence, complete the form on the next page. Return it to the Committee to Honor Meritorious Service, c/o the President's Office.
